

The Johns Hopkins Hospital,
Baltimore, April 24th 1890.

Dear Mrs. Bayley,

At my suggestion Miss Mary Garrett of Baltimore wishes to write you at an early day to interest you in a movement for the higher education of Lady Physicians in connection with the Johns Hopkins University. It has seemed to Miss Hoovey and Miss Loring of Boston, to Mary Putnam Jacobi of New York to Miss Garrett and others that the present opportunity became

Post-graduate instruction in Medicine for women is one which should not be allowed to pass by and the work is eliciting much enthusiastic support. My object in writing is simply to prepare the way for Miss Garrett's letter which will give you fuller details of the plans of these ladies.
If you could act as a Chairman of a Michigan Committee I am sure it would further their work amazingly and I hope you will consent to do so.

With great respect-believe me
Sincerely yours

Henry M. Hunt
