PREFACE.

THIS Dictionary from English to Colloquial Mandarin Chinese was prepared by the late Mr. G. C. STENT from his Chinese-English Dictionary. The printing was begun some years ago, but it was laid aside owing to press of work in the Department, and was only taken up again in 1904. The last third of the work has been revised and passed through the press by Mr. K. E. G. HEMELING, of the Imperial Maritime Customs Service, by whom also the Supplementary List of Words and Phrases was prepared.

GEORGE CARTER STENT was born at Canterbury, England, on 15th June 1833. He was first appointed to the Chinese Customs Service in March 1869, and at the time of his death, in September 1884, was Assistant in charge of the Custom House at Takow, in Formosa. The first edition of his Chinese-English Dictionary was brought out in 1871, and the second enlarged edition in 1877. The present work is issued to the public as a memorial to the author, who, by industry and native ability, raised himself to a leading position among the sinologues of his day.

INSPECTORATE GENERAL OF CUSTOMS,

STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT,
